THE MATURING OF THE OIL SANDS

MATCHING SUPPLY CHAIN STRATEGY TO THE NEW ECONOMIC REALITY

45 years have passed since the start of the first oil sands project. There is no longer talk of how the bitumen can be extracted. The focus has shifted to the redrawing of the economics of the oil sands, the development of new environmental and process technologies, and the evolution of supply chain relationships between buyers and sellers.

ONLINE DELEGATE AND EXHIBITOR REGISTRATION NOW OPEN

Alberta's annual National Buyer/Seller Forum is the ultimate place to familiarize yourself with this shift and get exposure to all the major projects, people, and trends that shape the oil sands industry.

The Forum is celebrating its 10th anniversary and will take place March 23 – 25, 2010 at the Shaw Conference Centre, Edmonton, Alberta. This exciting event brings together buyers and sellers from across Canada and the USA.

There will also be a Showcase for suppliers from across the country providing a tremendous opportunity to make and renew supply chain relationships.

The Forum will feature presentations on:

- The new economic reality in the oil sands
- How project owners are optimizing and redefining their supply chain
- New technologies used in the oil sands
- Government initiatives in the energy sector
- Special Keynote luncheon speaker Peter Tertzakian, International Energy Expert and writer of "THE END OF ENERGY OBESITY"
