

Alberta remains hotbed of activity: *Oil sands continue strong during economic crisis

It's no longer business as usual. The rules are changing. And you might need a new play book for 2009. What with the economic crisis – on both global and national fronts, the political situation here in Canada and a variety of labour issues, Alberta is a hotbed of activity that requires new strategies, business plans and economic forecasts.

The National Buyer/Seller Forum is the premier oil sands supply chain development event, where industry leaders, such as you, meet to hear from the experts on the challenges, issues, and countless opportunities emerging from the current industrial transformation. The business strategies and industry intelligence that you need in order to create success for your company in challenging times are yours for the taking at the National Buyer/Seller Forum.

Register today to join companies from across Alberta and Canada who are having the conversations to set them up for success on the coming economic upswing. You can't afford to miss this event. Multiple options for attendance are available.
